CU Maurice River Annual Message January 2006

Each year it is with both sadness and warm memories that I reflect upon some of the special members we have lost since our last annual message. This year is no exception. Some details about each of the individuals clearly represent simply a snapshot of my recollections and fall vastly short of any kind of summary of their individual contributions. In this reflection I often find meaning in the work we do, primarily because life is all about the legacy we leave for future generations.

Frank Basile – So many folks have so many memories of this larger-than-life individual. Mine focus on the very STRONG sense of presence that Frank always had, even when he said nothing. It always seemed to me that Frank could have been type-cast as a Southern judge or lawyer because he was a person who was gentlemanly yet who instantly commanded respect. When he did speak everyone listened. He was a wonderful courtroom orator who garnered admiration through his keen intellect and clear perceptions. Each year Frank would commend the work of CU and offer any help we needed. As most of you know, Basile, and Testa have played a key role in CU's successes over the years as Todd Heck has represented the collective interests of CU and our members on many occasions.
